are just the right medicine for the children. When they are constipated—when their kidneys are all out of order—when over-indulgence in some favorite food gives them indigestion—Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills will quickly and surely put them right. Very vegetable, they neither sicken, weaken or grip, like harsh purgatives. Guard your children's health by always keeping a box of Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills in the house. They'll keep the Children Well.

W. N. U. 1007

An Unexpected Boomerang

Martin W. Littleton was talking at the Garden City Golf club about cross examination.

"I am a foe to harsh and overbearing cross examiners," he said, "and I wish they would all fare like Councilman Dash."

"Councilman Dash was the prosecutor in a case of alleged election fraud. His own election, a municipal one, had been all right, but in the recent state election he hoped to prove serious corruption."

"The councilman began to cross examine a voter named Washington White."

"'Wash,' he said, 'have you got any fixed income?'"

"'What's that, sir?' Wash asked. 'I don't quite understand the question, sir.'"

"'Have you got any fixed income?' said the councilman. 'That is to say, are there any set sums of money or appurtenances assured you on certain dates?'"

"'Oh, yes, sir,' said Wash. 'Yes, there is, sir.'"

"'You answered the councilman, 'you have got a fixed income, then, have you?' Well, tell us what it is.'"

"'You know yourself, sir,' said Washington, reproachfully, 'that every election day, just as sure as it comes around, you give me $2 and a bag.'"

—Philadelphia Ledger.

Minard's Liniment used by Physicians.

Plenty of it

At a church conference a speaker began a tirade against the universities and education, expressing thanks for the fact that he had never been captured by contact with a college.

After proceeding for a few minutes, the bishop, who was in the chair, interrupted with the question:

"Do I understand that Mr. X is thankful for his ignorance?"

"Well, yes," was the answer; "you can put it that way if you like."

"Well, all I have to say," said the prelate in sweet and musical tones—"all I have to say is that Mr. X has much to be thankful for."

HOW TO CURE STOMACH TROUBLE

The Common Cause is Lack of Blood—Therefore You Must Build Up the Blood

There is the most intimate relation between the condition of the blood and the activity of the stomach. The blood depends upon the stomach for a large part of its nourishment, while the activity of digestion, from the time the food enters the stomach and is assimilated by the blood needs plenty of pure well-oxygenated blood. The muscles, glands and nerves of the stomach work only according to the quality of the blood.

The most common cause of indigestion is lack of rich, red blood. Not only does impure blood weaken the muscles of the stomach, but it lessens the product of the glands of the intestines and stomach, which furnish the digestive fluids. No living will more promptly cure indigestion than a course of pure blood. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are the safest and most certain blood-builder. A thorough trial of these pills gives a hearty appetite, perfect digestion, strength and health. Here is proof of the value of these Pills in cases of indigestion. Mrs. Alfred Austin, Virna, Ont., says:—

"My system became run-down and my stomach very weak. I had no desire for food and what I did take caused me great distress and did not afford me nourishment, and I was gradually growing weaker, and could scarcely do any work at all. I did not sleep soundly at night and would wake up at all refreshment with a feeling of dread. Some years previously I had used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills with much benefit, and this decided me to again try them. My confidence was not misplaced, as by the time I had used six boxes I was again feeling quite well."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all medicine dealers or will be sent by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by sending to The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The Guest—And who is the distinguished personage in oil over the mantle?

The Owner—That's my great-grandfather, Hopfinger Hinkle, pilot by Kaloosky. He was one of the mob of patriots who dumped the load of storage eggs into the harbor—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Minard's Liniment Co. Limited.

Gents—I have used your Minard's Liniment in my family and also in my stables for years and consider it the best medicine obtainable.

Very truly,

ALFRED RICHAV,

Proprietor Roston Pond Hotel and Livery Stables.

Impossible

"There goes that Mrs. Gadabout. Do you know, I've heard that her poor husband is absolutely tied to her apron strings."

"Nonsense! I don't believe she's had an apron since they've been married."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Cure Children's Colds By External Treatment

Mothers Will Find Nothing so Speedily and Reliable as Old-Time 'Nerviline'

It's really a shame to upset a young child's stomach by internal dosing, when external treatment will so promptly break up a cold.

When your boy comes in after play with his feet soaking wet, his throat hoarse and sore, his little chest tight and sore, just apply Nerviline. Give him a vigorous rubbing over his chest and throat with Nerviline on his chest and rub it right in. To make Nerviline penetrate more quickly cover his chest and throat with a hot flannel bandage. This treatment WON'T FAIL. Your boy will be feeling better in half an hour, and you will have the satisfaction of knowing you have ward off perhaps a cold, or gripple, or throat-sore, might have laid him up.

Nerviline is mighty good for preventing colds and for breaking up bad ones, too. For general family use it cures all sorts of external aches and pains—you simply can't beat it. Try it for earache, toothache, neuralgia, sciatica, lame back, rheumatism, or lumbago. Wherever there is congestion, inflammation or pain in the joints or muscles, Nerviline will cure it quickly. The large 50c family size bottle is so economical, so useful, it should be in every home. There is also a small 25c size. Dealers anywhere sell Nerviline.

Incredible

"I wouldn't have believed it of her."

"Neither would I. Jane is the last girl in the world I would have thought such a thing of."

"She doesn't seem like that sort of person."

"Indeed, she doesn't. I have taken my oath that she wouldn't do such a thing."

"Oh, you never can tell. I've known girls who have been to college to do worse things."

"Well, what did Jane do, anyway?"

"What did she do? She let her heart when Anne was sitting there with a whole handful of clubs."—Detroit Free Press.

"What are you crying for now?"

"Sister throw some cider on me."

"Well, that didn't hurt you, did it?"

"Yes, ma'am; it was hard cider."—Buffalo Express.

They Cleanse While They Cure—The vegetable compounds of which Parlee's Vegetable Pills are composed, mainly dandelion and mandarin, clear the stomach and intestines of deleterious matter and restore the digestive organs to healthy action. They are the best remedy for indigestion available to-day. A trial of them will establish the truth of this assertion and do more to convince the sufferer than anything that can be written of these pills.

"Cruel and Unusual"

Miss Manchester—I admit that Mr. Gaysport is rather wild, but I'm going to marry him to reform him.

Miss Pickles—I don't think he's done anything bad enough to deserve that.

FOUND THE CAUSE THE REST WAS EASY

DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS QUICKLY CURED HIS KIDNEY DISEASE

How—Hudson, Marchbank, After Suffering for Five Years, Found Quick Relief and Permanent Cure in the Greatest of Canadian Remedies—Marchbank, King's County, N.B. (Special)—After suffering for five years from kidney disease, brought on by a strain, Hudson Marchbank, one of the well known farmers of this place, is again a strong healthy man, and another grand cure for Dodd's Kidney Pills has been put on record in an interview, Mr. Marchbank says:

"About five years ago I hurt my back from lifting, and it developed into kidney disease. My back pained me all the time, and I was very much troubled with headaches. My appetite was failed; I had a bitter taste in my mouth in the mornings. I perspired freely and my perspiration had a disagreeable odor."

"I used liniments and plasters, but they did not do me any good, and as there were other symptoms, that my kidneys were affected, I decided to try Dodd's Kidney Pills. After using two boxes, my back was completely cured, and my kidneys were not troubled me since."

When Mr. Marchbank decided that his kidneys were the cause of his troubles, the rest was easy. Almost any of his neighbors could tell him that Dodd's Kidney Pills always cured diseased kidneys.

"Then They Quit"

"What's the trouble here?"

"The bellboys are on a strike."

"Want more pay, I suppose?"

"No. A man came in a little while ago and asked to have Waldman's Biscuits paid."

"Y. fader, vaterwerk makes you look so miserable? Ain't we marryin' Rebecca to young Gofenstein tomorrow and?"

"That's just the trouble, me boy. I have 'avin' to give 'er away."—Tatler.

On With the Dance

"Why does Miss Smith dancing the tango remind you of a constipation of stars?"

"She doesn't. Why does she remind you?"

"Because she's a great dapper."—Detroit Free Press.

Could Hardly Live for Asthma—Writes one man who after years of suffering has found complete relief through Dr. J. B. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy. Now he knows how needless has been his suffering. This matchless remedy gives sure help to all afflicted with asthma. Inhaled as smoke or vapor it brings the help so long needed. Every dealer has it; it can get it for you from his wholesale.

"We want you to help out our village improvement society."

"All right. What is it, a new cupola for the town hall?"

"Oh, no. We are merely raising a fund to buy the oldest inhabitants some false teeth."

Miss Paul—Her voice was strained. Miss Pry—Was she talking through her veil?—Judge.

Minard's Liniment Lumberman's Friend.

Suitor—You daughter; little hands were never made to work.

Mother—So I discovered long ago.

Concrete Grain Elevators

Are the best grain insurance that you can have against fire or damage of any sort. They are proof against rodents that gnaw their way into ordinary buildings and carry away the farmer's profits. They save storage charges by enabling you to store your own grain until you can obtain better prices.

Elevators built of concrete maintain a dry, even temperature. They cannot rot, rust or burn and require no repairs or paint—in short, they are the cheapest kind of elevators the grain farmer can build.

Let us send you the free book "What the Farmer can do with Concrete". It tells all about concrete farm buildings and how to build them, and about dozens of other things that the farmer can do with concrete.

By L. T. Meade

Ward, Lock & Co., Limited

"Not yet, sir. One or two clients have called by appointment and are waiting to see him."

"He may not be here," said Parkes. "You had better ask Mr. Sunningley's clients to call again."

"Yes, sir."

The man withdrew. Parkes sank back in his chair with a sense of relief. If Sunningley did not come to the office today, he, Parkes, need not know about the secret which the black box contained. He would, in short, have a reprieve—he was very glad of a reprieve.

He went on examining his letters. He had not had done with them yet. It was possible there might be one from little Barbara; but so far, nothing had been written. Where had she gone? Where was she? Had she any money? She had told him, when he called on her at Worthington-on-the-Hill, that she had plenty. But a country girl's ideas of plenty are very different from those of a city girl.

In her own home, surrounded by her own friends, she would always have abundance. But where was she now?

His clerk came back again.

"Mr. Sunningley is sorry, sir; I thought I'd mention it."

"All right, Dawson. Dawson, you needn't send Miss Juttin until I ring. Tell her to get her letters through and then wait until I ring."

"I will do so, sir."

Dawson had scarcely left the room before Sunningley appeared. One glance at his face caused Parkes to turn deadly white. Sunningley shut the door, turned the key in the lock and came deliberately forward. He held the little black box in his hand; Parkes watched him with a shudder. Sunningley put the box on the table where Parkes was sorting his letters.

"Yes, in God's name, what is it, Sunningley?"

"I have read everything in the box," was Sunningley's answer; "and, what is more, I have read a private letter which I found in a narrow drawer at the bottom of the box, and which I don't think little Barbara Chance discovered. Thank God she didn't discover it!"

"Is it a man's nest, of course," said Parkes, although he did not believe the words when he uttered them. "It is a deuced bad business," was Sunningley's response.

"Oh, oh? What?"

"You had better read, then you will know."

"I don't want to. I was always fond of Chance, poor fellow."

"Ah, well, yes," said Sunningley. "Poor fellow, as you say. He always seemed to me a particularly upright man, particularly so because, to me, man of the world and yet a divine—curious mixture; but there are such people, and I should have noticed him out as an example of such."

Parkes did not speak; his anxious eyes were fixed on Sunningley's face. After a pause, Sunningley continued: "Chance has gone to his account."

My face was very sore during the time it was sore."

"I was troubled with sore hands most all day they would be sore. They kept cracking and were so sore I could hardly bear to get them wet."

"Upon seeing Cuticura Soap and Ointment advertised I thought there would be no harm in trying them so I started with a small sample. I purchased a full-sized case of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment and before I had quite finished this I saw I was lots better than the second case of Cuticura Soap and box of Cuticura Ointment and before I had quite finished this I saw I was entirely cured." God knows he carried a heavy burden. A question now arises—It is this—"What is to be done with the girl?"

"Sunningley, I have been thinking it over. The child has a little money, surely her rightful inheritance. Her father insured his life for her—two thousand and some more, but a little. There was her mother's small fortune. After paying the necessary death duties which I thought you and Dean Chance arranged to meet—however, we need not talk about that just now, the girl ought to have about one hundred and fifty pounds a year. On that sum she need not starve. Some day a good man will fall in love with so sweet a girl, and she can marry; many a girl has married on as little. She can manage, I think, so, don't you?"

"I haven't the least doubt that she will manage," said Sunningley, "but of course," he added, "she cannot possibly touch that money until she is married. What do you mean?"

"Just what I say. She cannot touch it until she is married, and you will agree with me."

Parkes felt himself huddling down into the depths of his chair. He had not a curious sensation, as though a number of years had passed over his head, as though he were feeling the weight of his years and could not raise himself to his normal height. He hardly knew what to do.

Sunningley went to the door to answer a knock; he opened the door a little way and had conversation with the managing clerk.

"Say that my partner and I are specially engaged and can't see anyone. He then locked the door and came back."

"Parkes," he said, "I am sorry for you, but more sorry for myself, and more sorry for the child. 'The child will be my care if I can find her. You and I, Parkes, have to face this thing: there is danger, danger for the child. Read the letters.'"

"Now?" said Parkes.

"No," said Sunningley, "that child read them all alone in the dead of night. They affected the memory of her father; they affected—but you will know when you have read them. Surely you can stand reading them in broad daylight."

"Sunningley, can we do nothing for her?"

"Read the letters, and then we will talk about what we can do."

As Sunningley spoke, he opened the box and put the first little packet of letters before his partner. "There," he said, "you're a sharp man of business, you will soon see the drift of the thing."

Parkes began to read; Sunningley waited. Once the lawyer began his task, he got absorbed; soon he was deeply interested. As he finished each little pile of letters he pushed it back to Sunningley, who strapped it up neatly in one corner and gave him the next pile to peruse. By and by he had read everything except the letter which was in the last letter. This letter caused the partners to look each at the other.

"Well," said Sunningley, "you are right."

"You could not say anything else, could you?" was Sunningley's response.

"Nothing. That poor child! It is scarcely likely that she has returned to Worthington-on-the-Hill."

"Our business," said Sunningley, "is to discover her."

"It is my impression that she has very little money," was Parkes's remark.

"We must take steps to discover her without delay," said the other.

"Yes," said Parkes.

"Well," continued Sunningley, "these terrible letters, we must think them over. It is the most painful terrible work that was ever put into the hands of men like ourselves; we've always kept clear of that sort of thing, haven't we?"

"We have."

"The partners talked for a little longer, but then the sister man went out."

CHAPTER IV.

When Barbara Chance left the consequential offices of Messrs. Parkes and Sunningley, she turned suddenly down a small lane and found herself the next minute in a little square which was more or less hidden from the public eye. This square was called by Parkes and by a few solicitors; some old-fashioned trees stood in its midst; it was quiet, but the noisy traffic did not reach it. Barbara was glad of this, for from the quiet country to the great bustle of London was such a complete change to her, that she felt reeling and could scarcely, for a time at least, contain herself. With the clerk at Parkes and Sunningley's was searching for this young girl who was herself packing quietly up and going in, Alchurch square. She knew nothing whatever of this quiet little place, her finding it was the merest chance. For a moment or two she was certainly the only woman in the square. The men who passed in and out were "business-gown" men, men also who had "taken silk," but no woman seemed to have anything to do with Alchurch square. More than on barrier stared at the girl, noticed the remarkable attractiveness of her small face, and even turned to glance at her again, wondering why she had come thus in the middle of the day to disturb the clerk at his duties.

Barbara, however, had her thoughts very far away; no body except her father filled her mind. She wanted to put things straight for him, she felt that she was doing so, and that nothing else greatly mattered. Having, however, gone through her agony, she had at that moment a sensation of almost pleasant surprise. She had been lifted from her heart, she could breathe once again. Then she thought over her own future; not, however, clearly, nor even every steadily. She had said good-bye to the home of her life, and to the friends of her life for ever. She must not think of Ralph. It hurt her to think of Ralph, went to her heart like a sharp knife. She was glad he was out of England, he could never, never have anything to do with her in the future. When he came back, she would forget him, and he would marry Margot, and Margot was rich and would bring wealth to add to her own. But she would never, never marry little Barbara Chance, never, never.

But in the meantime, what was she to do? She thought and thought. Suddenly an idea flitted through her mind.

"While visiting my mother-in-law I remarked that she always made such good coffee, and asked her to tell me how. She said she had a number of ways to make good 'coffee' when you use Postum."

The Tea of "Distinction"

Red Rose is a distinctive tea. It is largely composed of the fine teas of Northern India, which are generous in strength and richness. These, blended with the more flavory teas of Ceylon, produce the qualities for which Red Rose Tea is famed.

The 50c. quality of Red Rose is an extra fine tea—stronger and fuller-flavored than the 40c. quality, which has the largest sale.

TEETHING BABIES

Teething time is usually a time of worry to mothers. It is usually accompanied by nervousness, stomach troubles and extreme fretfulness. The mother can avoid all this; she can have her baby pass through the dangerous teething time without pain or crossness. Baby's Own Tablets are the mother's greatest friend at this time. They sweeten the stomach, reduce the fever, allay fermentation, which usually accompanies the coming of new teeth, and in this way make teething easy. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.
